The author, Laurel House, grew up in a dysfunctional family and turned to alcohol and drugs to cope. She quickly spiraled out of control, and her addiction led her to make some bad choices, including getting involved with abusive men. But through it all, Laurel never gave up on herself. She eventually found the strength to get sober and rebuild her life, and she now shares her story to help others who are struggling with addiction.

Addiction Hope: Ex-Girlfriends and Other Dangerous Things is a must-read for anyone who has ever struggled with addiction, or who loves someone who is struggling. Laurel's story is a testament to the power of hope and the human spirit, and it will inspire readers to never give up on themselves.

In this book, Laurel shares:

- Her experiences with addiction and recovery
- The challenges she faced in her relationships with men
- The lessons she learned about herself and the world
- The hope she found in her journey

Laurel's story is a powerful reminder that addiction is a disease that can affect anyone, regardless of their background or circumstances. It is also a story of hope and redemption, and it will inspire readers to never give up on themselves or their loved ones.
