

China's Cold War and the People of the Tibetan Borderlands: A New Cold War History

By David Snellgrove

China's Cold War and the People of the Tibetan Borderlands is a groundbreaking new study of the Cold War in Asia. This meticulously researched book reveals the profound impact of the Cold War on the lives of the Tibetan people, and sheds new light on the complex relationship between China and Tibet.

Snellgrove draws on a wide range of sources, including Chinese, Tibetan, and Western archives, to provide a comprehensive account of the Cold War in the Tibetan borderlands. He shows how the Cold War transformed the region, from a relatively isolated and peaceful area to a battleground for competing ideologies and geopolitical interests.
